

Comment on Implementation of Recommendations
Tel Hai College

13 March 2011

Prof. Jonathan Rabinowitz

The institution has provided a very detailed and comprehensive response. It appears that the evaluation process was a catalyst for positive change. The response indeed covers all of the points raised. The continued progress of this young program is impressive. The one area that could benefit from further consideration is in weaving the evidence based model more tightly into the curriculum. The report notes that a workshop was held, but this may not be sufficient.